Samar M, I'd like a response, specifically,

- What is the proper address for trust pilot's services?
- What is Trust Pilot's Australian Business Number
- Who is the data controller contact?
- How many 0's are you gonna write on that cheque?

And Samar M, I would like to remind you, you said this:

I'm Samar and I've now personally taken over this case to ensure it's escalated and handled with priority.

We fully understand your concerns and we're here to assist you. Apologies for any delayed response — we know how important this is and appreciate your patience.

So now ignoring me when I request information that by law, Trust pilot has to provide, after the 2 weeks of emailing I've had to go through just to reach a human who doesn't just copy and paste replies, So where is the personal priority support?

You have now removed the defamatory review, but removal does not cure the loss already caused. You were repeatedly put on notice and continued to publish. Liability is preserved. I will now file proceedings without further notice for defamation under the Defamation Act 2005 (NSW) with aggravated damages, and for breaches of the Australian Consumer Law including misleading or deceptive conduct and unfair contract terms.

Preserve all documents immediately, including all logs, audit trails, moderation notes, internal messages, reviewer metadata, access records, and correspondence. Confirm your proper address for service, Trust Pilot's Australian Business Number and your data controller contact today, 11 August 2025. Any further interference, republication, or deletion of evidence will be relied on in support of injunctive relief and costs on an indemnity basis.

Govern yourselves accordingly.

Hi Anthony,

We understand your frustration and the impact this situation has had on your business. However, as a platform, we do not offer compensation in such cases. Our role is to investigate reported content in line with our policies and applicable laws, and to take action when violations are confirmed — which we've done in this instance by archiving the review. And as mentioned before, please note that when a review is flagged for defamation, the review is hidden during the entire investigation process.

In this case, the review by Robert McDonovan was archived based on the information you shared about why the review is not based on a genuine experience.

We genuinely appreciate your persistence when flagging a review, you need to choose the most suitable flagging reason, to review your case and to ensure all concerns are properly addressed.

Warm Regards,

Samar M,
Content Integrity Team

We are rated 4.3 out of 5

Now lets talk compensation, you by your own admission agreed it was defamation, I provided proof your system rejected that. Causing 5 days of slanderous lies your platform published.

Hi

Thanks for your reply. We understand your frustration, and we acknowledge that the process hasn't felt smooth on your end.

To clarify — the review by Robert McDonovan

<<https://www.trustpilot.com/reviews/6891f28ff1af81b4b169cffd>> in question has now been archived. As mentioned before, based on the information you shared about why the review is not based on a genuine experience, we've now taken the review offline, and it's no longer visible on your profile page.

We've let the reviewer know about this decision. Keep in mind that if they dispute it and provide information about their experience <<https://support.trustpilot.com/hc/en-us/articles/201839083-Which-documents-help-us-verify-your-review->>, the review may be reinstated.

And we appreciate your persistence in bringing it back to our attention. While we aim to assess every report accurately from the start, sometimes additional context or follow-up is needed to trigger a deeper review.

We're continuously working to improve how these cases are handled, especially when multiple flags are involved. I've taken ownership of this case to ensure your concerns are addressed thoroughly and without further delay.

Thanks again for your patience and cooperation,

Let me get this straight, it's not defamatory, but it is, it's taken down, but it's not? It couldn't be seen, but it could?

Attached are two videos that show you are lying to me now and you outright stated just then that it should have been removed for defamatory, so which lie are you gonna use?

Hi Anthony,

I'm Samar and I've now personally taken over this case to ensure it's escalated and handled with priority.

We fully understand your concerns and we're here to assist you. Apologies for any delayed response — we know how important this is and appreciate your patience.

Regarding the review by Robert McDonovan — Based on the information you shared about why the review is not based on a genuine experience, we've now taken the review offline, and it's no longer visible on your profile page.

We've let the reviewer know about this decision. Keep in mind that if they dispute it and provide information about their experience <<https://support.trustpilot.com/hc/en-us/articles/201839083-Which-documents-help-us-verify-your-review->>, the review may be reinstated.

Please note that we have dedicated teams handling specific case types, and it's not always feasible to manually check every email across different threads. The most effective way to help us resolve your issue quickly is to reply within the relevant case thread, so all information stays connected.

When a review is flagged for defamation, it is automatically hidden during the investigation as part of our standard moderation process. This is done to prevent further reputational harm while the claim is assessed.

And if the review is flagged for other reasons, in some cases-such as "Being about a different business" flagging reason, we are required to contact the reviewer to confirm whether the review was mistakenly posted to the wrong profile. If the reviewer does not respond within 3 days, the review is automatically removed from the public profile to avoid confusion or harm to unrelated businesses.

Each flagging reason also follows its own investigation path, so separating them ensures accuracy and avoids delays. Let's keep things coordinated so we can reach the best outcome as efficiently as possible.

Thank you for your cooperation,

Samar M,

It has been over 5 hours since your last correspondence.

You are already in possession of my 4 Aug 2025 formal legal demand and evidence bundles provided to the ACCC, UK CMA, Danish Consumer Ombudsman, Thames Valley Police (Ref 43250388789) and others. This review by "Robert McDonovan" is part of the same coordinated competitor-led harassment campaign already evidenced in those filings.

Its statements are categorically false, made by a non-customer, and are inherently defamatory. You are now well beyond the point where delay is excusable — every day you knowingly keep this review live is a new act of publication, stripping Trustpilot of any intermediary immunity and making you and your staff personally liable under UK Defamation Act 2013 and Australian Defamation Act 2005.

Remove it immediately or it will be included as a fresh count in my pending defamation proceedings.

⚠️ Snowflake Warning: If you're easily offended by swearing, emotion, or being held accountable for your incompetence — stop reading. This one isn't for you.

Halla,

Drop the attitude, dickhead. Your reply came FOUR days after I raised the issue, and instead of a meaningful response, I get a patronising, pre-written pile of shit acting like this is just business as usual and I should be thankful anything was done at all.

Let's spell it out so even your "content integrity team" can follow it:

You allowed fake reviews to publish. You delayed removal. You failed to read what was actually sent. And now you're replying with smug copy-paste bullshit as if I'm in the wrong for chasing it.

This isn't about the reviews that were already taken down — those were flagged days ago. The problem is you don't even know what's still active and what isn't, you're responding to old tickets as if they're new, and you've ignored context, evidence, user links, and the coordinated nature of the attacks entirely.

You let known bad actors post reviews under aliases. You've got open evidence of abuse — timestamps, screenshots, fake names, cross-platform harassment — and you've done fuck-all. Meanwhile, my business, Legion Killfeed, is being dragged through the mud because your platform enabled it, then acted like my reaction was the real problem.

I have already filed a formal complaints with the ACCC, UK CMA, and the Danish Consumer Ombudsman.

I am looking into civil legal proceedings for defamation and platform negligence.

You, every staff member who replied and Trustpilot will be named, because this isn't just company-level failure, it's personal negligence.

And yes, I know, respect — you're gonna bitch that I fucking swore. Suck it up, princess. You're lucky a few words said out of anger are all you got after your incompetent platform violated my rights, slandered my business, then acted like me getting angry about it was my fault.

And you clowns are the ones who can't even tell what tickets are open and which are closed, clearly — because you keep replying to the copious attempts made SEVERAL DAYS AGO as if I just sent them.

Please note that my business is being actively defamed, and your team should be thoroughly reviewing every email before replying — if basic logical reasoning is applied.

There is nothing fair about any of what's continued to happen.

You let a coordinated group post fake reviews, encourage others to do the same, and even allowed one with the username "Cunt" to accuse my business of "robbing clients" — all while ignoring direct evidence, police reports, and multiple formal complaints. Your moderation team let these sit live for days, causing measurable damage to my reputation and income. That's not fairness. That's negligence.

Your system failed at every step — allowing lies to be published, letting them stay up far too long, and now responding in fragments, days apart, after the harm has been done. You're only reviewing individual reports when the issue has always been organised abuse across multiple reviews, accounts, and platforms — something you were told about in the very first complaint.

So no — don't act like this was handled fairly. It wasn't. You've been drip-feeding generic responses after ignoring nearly 20 emails. Now go read them properly — all of them — then come back with a full, accountable answer. Or don't, and I'll see you in court.

Anthony Brodie

Owner – Legion Killfeed

I will continue to reply to them all until all are removed from my profile, I don't give a damn what ticket it is.

You keep refusing to remove

[cid:455aa10c-4523-43f1-b49d-34c75da107d7]

This is defamation, plain and simple. It causes real-world commercial harm, and you are now replying days later, which completely undermines your obligations to act "fairly and promptly" when unlawful content is flagged.

Let me be clear:

I will continue to reply to every single defamatory review you leave live.

I do not care what ticket ID it falls under.

Every response becomes evidence — not just of the abuse, but of your deliberate negligence.

If your system is incapable of identifying clearly defamatory content like this — and you knowingly allow it to remain published — then you are actively republishing libel. And as previously warned, that strips you of intermediary immunity under UK and Australian law. You are now fully on notice. Every single review like this that remains on my profile will be individually documented, responded to, and escalated until I receive confirmation of permanent removal.

Hello,

Thank you for your copy-and-paste response.

Please note that my business is being actively defamed, and your team should be thoroughly reviewing every email before replying — if basic logical reasoning is applied.

Regarding the review I'm referring to — not the one linked to this ticket — please take it offline immediately.

If your process requires you to copy and paste responses until you eventually reach the correct email, please ensure you actually read the context and respond accordingly.

Hoping you burn in hell for ruining my reputation,

Anthony Brodie

There is nothing fair about any of what's continued to happen.

You let a coordinated group post fake reviews, encourage others to do the same, and even allowed one with the username "Cunt" to accuse my business of "robbing clients" — all while ignoring direct evidence, police reports, and multiple formal complaints. Your moderation team let these sit live for days, causing measurable damage to my reputation and income. That's not fairness. That's negligence.

Your system failed at every step — allowing lies to be published, letting them stay up far too long, and now responding in fragments, days apart, after the harm has been done. You're only reviewing individual reports when the issue has always been organised abuse across multiple reviews, accounts, and platforms — something you were told about in the very first complaint.

So no — don't act like this was handled fairly. It wasn't. You've been drip-feeding generic responses after ignoring nearly 20 emails. Now go read them properly — all of them — then come back with a full, accountable answer. Or don't, and I'll see you in court.

Anthony Brodie
Owner – Legion Killfeed

I will continue to reply to them all until all are removed from my profile, I don't give a damn what ticket it is.

You keep refusing to remove

[cid:455aa10c-4523-43f1-b49d-34c75da107d7]

This is defamation, plain and simple. It causes real-world commercial harm, and you are now replying days later, which completely undermines your obligations to act "fairly and promptly" when unlawful content is flagged.

Let me be clear:

I will continue to reply to every single defamatory review you leave live.

I do not care what ticket ID it falls under.

Every response becomes evidence — not just of the abuse, but of your deliberate negligence.

You're charging businesses for "priority support" while giving attackers a free platform to commit reputational sabotage. That alone renders your process incompatible with basic legal standards in Australia, the UK, and the EU.

If your system is incapable of identifying clearly defamatory content like this — and you knowingly allow it to remain published — then you are actively republishing libel. And as previously warned, that strips you of intermediary immunity under UK and Australian law. You are now fully on notice. Every single review like this that remains on my profile will be individually documented, responded to, and escalated until I receive confirmation of permanent removal.

⚠️ Snowflake Warning: If you're easily offended by swearing, emotion, or being held accountable for your incompetence — stop reading. This one isn't for you.

Halla,

Drop the attitude, dickhead. Your reply came FOUR days after I raised the issue, and instead of a meaningful response, I get a patronising, pre-written pile of shit acting like this is just business as usual and I should be thankful anything was done at all.

Let's spell it out so even your "content integrity team" can follow it:

You allowed fake reviews to publish. You delayed removal. You failed to read what was actually sent. And now you're replying with smug copy-paste bullshit as if I'm in the wrong for chasing it.

This isn't about the reviews that were already taken down — those were flagged days ago. The problem is you don't even know what's still active and what isn't, you're responding to old tickets as if they're new, and you've ignored context, evidence, user links, and the coordinated nature of the attacks entirely.

You let known bad actors post reviews under aliases. You've got open evidence of abuse — timestamps, screenshots, fake names, cross-platform harassment — and you've done fuck-all. Meanwhile, my business, Legion Killfeed, is being dragged through the mud because your platform enabled it, then acted like my reaction was the real problem.

I have already filed a formal complaints with the ACCC, UK CMA, and the Danish Consumer Ombudsman.

I am looking into civil legal proceedings for defamation and platform negligence.

You, every staff member who replied and Trustpilot will be named, because this isn't just company-level failure, it's personal negligence.

And yes, I know, respect — you're gonna bitch that I fucking swore. Suck it up, princess. You're lucky a few words said out of anger are all you got after your incompetent platform violated my rights, slandered my business, then acted like me getting angry about it was my fault.

And you clowns are the ones who can't even tell what tickets are open and which are closed, clearly — because you keep replying to the copious attempts made SEVERAL DAYS AGO as if I just sent them.

Hello,

Thank you for your copy-and-paste response.

Please note that my business is being actively defamed, and your team should be thoroughly reviewing every email before replying — if basic logical reasoning is applied.

Regarding the review I'm referring to — not the one linked to this ticket — please take it offline immediately.

If your process requires you to copy and paste responses until you eventually reach the correct email, please ensure you actually read the context and respond accordingly.

Hoping you burn in hell for ruining my reputation,

Anthony Brodie

There is nothing fair about any of what's continued to happen.

You let a coordinated group post fake reviews, encourage others to do the same, and even allowed one with the username "Cunt" to accuse my business of "robbing clients" — all while ignoring direct evidence, police reports, and multiple formal complaints. Your moderation team let these sit live for days, causing measurable damage to my reputation and income. That's not fairness. That's negligence.

Your system failed at every step — allowing lies to be published, letting them stay up far too long, and now responding in fragments, days apart, after the harm has been done.

You're only reviewing individual reports when the issue has always been organised abuse across multiple reviews, accounts, and platforms — something you were told about in the very first complaint.

So no — don't act like this was handled fairly. It wasn't. You've been drip-feeding generic responses after ignoring nearly 20 emails. Now go read them properly — all of them — then come back with a full, accountable answer. Or don't, and I'll see you in court.

Anthony Brodie

Owner – Legion Killfeed

I will continue to reply to them all until all are removed from my profile, I don't give a damn what ticket it is.

You keep refusing to remove

[cid:455aa10c-4523-43f1-b49d-34c75da107d7]

This is defamation, plain and simple. It causes real-world commercial harm, and you are now replying days later, which completely undermines your obligations to act "fairly and promptly" when unlawful content is flagged.

Let me be clear:

I will continue to reply to every single defamatory review you leave live.

I do not care what ticket ID it falls under.

Every response becomes evidence — not just of the abuse, but of your deliberate negligence.

You're charging businesses for "priority support" while giving attackers a free platform to commit reputational sabotage. That alone renders your process incompatible with basic legal standards in Australia, the UK, and the EU.

If your system is incapable of identifying clearly defamatory content like this — and you knowingly allow it to remain published — then you are actively republishing libel. And as previously warned, that strips you of intermediary immunity under UK and Australian law. You are now fully on notice. Every single review like this that remains on my profile will be individually documented, responded to, and escalated until I receive confirmation of permanent removal.

Hi

Thanks for your reply. We understand your frustration, and we acknowledge that the process hasn't felt smooth on your end.

To clarify — the review by Robert McDonovan in question has now been archived. As mentioned before, based on the information you shared about why the review is not based on a genuine experience, we've now taken the review offline, and it's no longer visible on your profile page.

We've let the reviewer know about this decision. Keep in mind that if they dispute it and provide information about their experience, the review may be reinstated.

And we appreciate your persistence in bringing it back to our attention. While we aim to assess every report accurately from the start, sometimes additional context or follow-up is needed to trigger a deeper review.

We're continuously working to improve how these cases are handled, especially when multiple flags are involved. I've taken ownership of this case to ensure your concerns are addressed thoroughly and without further delay.

Thanks again for your patience and cooperation,

Let me get this straight, it's not defamatory, but it is, it's taken down, but it's not? It couldn't be seen, but it could?

Attached are two videos that show you are lying to me now and you outright stated just then that it should have been removed for defamatory, so which lie are you gonna use?

Hi Anthony,

I'm Samar and I've now personally taken over this case to ensure it's escalated and handled with priority.

We fully understand your concerns and we're here to assist you. Apologies for any delayed response — we know how important this is and appreciate your patience.

Regarding the review by Robert McDonovan — Based on the information you shared about why the review is not based on a genuine experience, we've now taken the review offline, and it's no longer visible on your profile page.

We've let the reviewer know about this decision. Keep in mind that if they dispute it and provide information about their experience <<https://support.trustpilot.com/hc/en-us/articles/201839083-Which-documents-help-us-verify-your-review->>, the review may be reinstated.

Please note that we have dedicated teams handling specific case types, and it's not always feasible to manually check every email across different threads. The most effective way to help us resolve your issue quickly is to reply within the relevant case thread, so all information stays connected.

When a review is flagged for defamation, it is automatically hidden during the investigation as part of our standard moderation process. This is done to prevent further reputational harm while the claim is assessed.

And if the review is flagged for other reasons, in some cases—such as "Being about a different business" flagging reason, we are required to contact the reviewer to confirm whether the review was mistakenly posted to the wrong profile. If the reviewer does not respond within 3 days, the review is automatically removed from the public profile to avoid confusion or harm to unrelated businesses.

Each flagging reason also follows its own investigation path, so separating them ensures accuracy and avoids delays. Let's keep things coordinated so we can reach the best outcome as efficiently as possible.

Thank you for your cooperation,

Samar M,

It has been over 5 hours since your last correspondence.

You are already in possession of my 4 Aug 2025 formal legal demand and evidence bundles provided to the ACCC, UK CMA, Danish Consumer Ombudsman, Thames Valley Police (Ref 43250388789) and others. This review by "Robert McDonovan" is part of the same coordinated competitor-led harassment campaign already evidenced in those filings.

Its statements are categorically false, made by a non-customer, and are inherently defamatory. You are now well beyond the point where delay is excusable — every day you knowingly keep this review live is a new act of publication, stripping Trustpilot of any intermediary immunity and making you and your staff personally liable under UK Defamation Act 2013 and Australian Defamation Act 2005.

Remove it immediately or it will be included as a fresh count in my pending defamation proceedings.

Hello,

Thank you for your copy-and-paste response.

Please note that my business is being actively defamed, and your team should be thoroughly reviewing every email before replying — if basic logical reasoning is applied.

Regarding the review I'm referring to — not the one linked to this ticket — please take it offline immediately.

If your process requires you to copy and paste responses until you eventually reach the correct email, please ensure you actually read the context and respond accordingly.

Hoping you burn in hell for ruining my reputation,

Anthony Brodie

There is nothing fair about any of what's continued to happen.

You let a coordinated group post fake reviews, encourage others to do the same, and even allowed one with the username "Cunt" to accuse my business of "robbing clients" —

all while ignoring direct evidence, police reports, and multiple formal complaints. Your moderation team let these sit live for days, causing measurable damage to my reputation and income. That's not fairness. That's negligence.

Your system failed at every step — allowing lies to be published, letting them stay up far too long, and now responding in fragments, days apart, after the harm has been done. You're only reviewing individual reports when the issue has always been organised abuse across multiple reviews, accounts, and platforms — something you were told about in the very first complaint.

So no — don't act like this was handled fairly. It wasn't. You've been drip-feeding generic responses after ignoring nearly 20 emails. Now go read them properly — all of them — then come back with a full, accountable answer. Or don't, and I'll see you in court.

Anthony Brodie

Owner – Legion Killfeed

I will continue to reply to them all until all are removed from my profile, I don't give a damn what ticket it is.

You keep refusing to remove

[cid:455aa10c-4523-43f1-b49d-34c75da107d7]

This is defamation, plain and simple. It causes real-world commercial harm, and you are now replying days later, which completely undermines your obligations to act "fairly and promptly" when unlawful content is flagged.

Let me be clear:

I will continue to reply to every single defamatory review you leave live.

I do not care what ticket ID it falls under.

Every response becomes evidence — not just of the abuse, but of your deliberate negligence.

You're charging businesses for "priority support" while giving attackers a free platform to commit reputational sabotage. That alone renders your process incompatible with basic legal standards in Australia, the UK, and the EU.

If your system is incapable of identifying clearly defamatory content like this — and you knowingly allow it to remain published — then you are actively republishing libel. And as previously warned, that strips you of intermediary immunity under UK and Australian law. You are now fully on notice. Every single review like this that remains on my profile will be individually documented, responded to, and escalated until I receive confirmation of permanent removal.

⚠️ Snowflake Warning: If you're easily offended by swearing, emotion, or being held accountable for your incompetence — stop reading. This one isn't for you.

Halla,

Drop the attitude, dickhead. Your reply came FOUR days after I raised the issue, and instead of a meaningful response, I get a patronising, pre-written pile of shit acting like this is just business as usual and I should be thankful anything was done at all.

Let's spell it out so even your "content integrity team" can follow it:

You allowed fake reviews to publish. You delayed removal. You failed to read what was actually sent. And now you're replying with smug copy-paste bullshit as if I'm in the wrong for chasing it.

This isn't about the reviews that were already taken down — those were flagged days ago. The problem is you don't even know what's still active and what isn't, you're responding to old tickets as if they're new, and you've ignored context, evidence, user links, and the coordinated nature of the attacks entirely.

You let known bad actors post reviews under aliases. You've got open evidence of abuse — timestamps, screenshots, fake names, cross-platform harassment — and you've done fuck-all. Meanwhile, my business, Legion Killfeed, is being dragged through the mud because your platform enabled it, then acted like my reaction was the real problem.

I have already filed a formal complaints with the ACCC, UK CMA, and the Danish Consumer Ombudsman.

I am looking into civil legal proceedings for defamation and platform negligence.

You, every staff member who replied and Trustpilot will be named, because this isn't just company-level failure, it's personal negligence.

And yes, I know, respect — you're gonna bitch that I fucking swore. Suck it up, princess. You're lucky a few words said out of anger are all you got after your incompetent platform violated my rights, slandered my business, then acted like me getting angry about it was my fault.

And you clowns are the ones who can't even tell what tickets are open and which are closed, clearly — because you keep replying to the copious attempts made SEVERAL DAYS AGO as if I just sent them.

Hello,

Thank you for your copy-and-paste response.

Please note that my business is being actively defamed, and your team should be thoroughly reviewing every email before replying — if basic logical reasoning is applied.

Regarding the review I'm referring to — not the one linked to this ticket — please take it offline immediately.

If your process requires you to copy and paste responses until you eventually reach the correct email, please ensure you actually read the context and respond accordingly.

Hoping you burn in hell for ruining my reputation,

There is nothing fair about any of what's continued to happen.

You let a coordinated group post fake reviews, encourage others to do the same, and even allowed one with the username "Cunt" to accuse my business of "robbing clients" — all while ignoring direct evidence, police reports, and multiple formal complaints. Your moderation team let these sit live for days, causing measurable damage to my reputation and income. That's not fairness. That's negligence.

Your system failed at every step — allowing lies to be published, letting them stay up far too long, and now responding in fragments, days apart, after the harm has been done. You're only reviewing individual reports when the issue has always been organised abuse across multiple reviews, accounts, and platforms — something you were told about in the very first complaint.

So no — don't act like this was handled fairly. It wasn't. You've been drip-feeding generic responses after ignoring nearly 20 emails. Now go read them properly — all of them — then come back with a full, accountable answer. Or don't, and I'll see you in court.

Anthony Brodie
Owner – Legion Killfeed

I will continue to reply to them all until all are removed from my profile, I don't give a damn what ticket it is.

You keep refusing to remove

[cid:455aa10c-4523-43f1-b49d-34c75da107d7]

This is defamation, plain and simple. It causes real-world commercial harm, and you are now replying days later, which completely undermines your obligations to act "fairly and promptly" when unlawful content is flagged.

Let me be clear:

I will continue to reply to every single defamatory review you leave live.

I do not care what ticket ID it falls under.

Every response becomes evidence — not just of the abuse, but of your deliberate negligence.

You're charging businesses for "priority support" while giving attackers a free platform to commit reputational sabotage. That alone renders your process incompatible with basic legal standards in Australia, the UK, and the EU.

If your system is incapable of identifying clearly defamatory content like this — and you knowingly allow it to remain published — then you are actively republishing libel. And as previously warned, that strips you of intermediary immunity under UK and Australian law. You are now fully on notice. Every single review like this that remains on my profile will be individually documented, responded to, and escalated until I receive confirmation of permanent removal.

You mean the review you rejected? That I then had to flag under everything else to get a response from a human?

Hi Anthony,

I'm Samar and I've now personally taken over this case to ensure it's escalated and handled with priority.

We fully understand your concerns and we're here to assist you. Apologies for any delayed response — we know how important this is and appreciate your patience.

Regarding the review by Robert McDonovan — Based on the information you shared about why the review is not based on a genuine experience, we've now taken the review offline, and it's no longer visible on your profile page.

We've let the reviewer know about this decision. Keep in mind that if they dispute it and provide information about their experience <<https://support.trustpilot.com/hc/en-us/articles/201839083-Which-documents-help-us-verify-your-review->>, the review may be reinstated.

Please note that we have dedicated teams handling specific case types, and it's not always feasible to manually check every email across different threads. The most effective way to help us resolve your issue quickly is to reply within the relevant case thread, so all information stays connected.

When a review is flagged for defamation, it is automatically hidden during the investigation as part of our standard moderation process. This is done to prevent further reputational harm while the claim is assessed.

And if the review is flagged for other reasons, in some cases—such as "Being about a different business" flagging reason, we are required to contact the reviewer to confirm whether the review was mistakenly posted to the wrong profile. If the reviewer does not respond within 3 days, the review is automatically removed from the public profile to avoid confusion or harm to unrelated businesses.

Each flagging reason also follows its own investigation path, so separating them ensures accuracy and avoids delays. Let's keep things coordinated so we can reach the best outcome as efficiently as possible.

Thank you for your cooperation,

Samar M,
Content Integrity Team

It has been over 5 hours since your last correspondence.

You are already in possession of my 4 Aug 2025 formal legal demand and evidence bundles provided to the ACCC, UK CMA, Danish Consumer Ombudsman, Thames Valley Police (Ref 43250388789) and others. This review by "Robert McDonovan" is part of the same coordinated competitor-led harassment campaign already evidenced in those filings.

Its statements are categorically false, made by a non-customer, and are inherently defamatory. You are now well beyond the point where delay is excusable — every day you knowingly keep this review live is a new act of publication, stripping Trustpilot of any intermediary immunity and making you and your staff personally liable under UK Defamation Act 2013 and Australian Defamation Act 2005.

Remove it immediately or it will be included as a fresh count in my pending defamation proceedings.

⚠️ Snowflake Warning: If you're easily offended by swearing, emotion, or being held accountable for your incompetence — stop reading. This one isn't for you.

Halla,

Drop the attitude, dickhead. Your reply came FOUR days after I raised the issue, and instead of a meaningful response, I get a patronising, pre-written pile of shit acting like this is just business as usual and I should be thankful anything was done at all.

Let's spell it out so even your "content integrity team" can follow it:

You allowed fake reviews to publish. You delayed removal. You failed to read what was actually sent. And now you're replying with smug copy-paste bullshit as if I'm in the wrong for chasing it.

This isn't about the reviews that were already taken down — those were flagged days ago. The problem is you don't even know what's still active and what isn't, you're responding to old tickets as if they're new, and you've ignored context, evidence, user links, and the coordinated nature of the attacks entirely.

You let known bad actors post reviews under aliases. You've got open evidence of abuse — timestamps, screenshots, fake names, cross-platform harassment — and you've done fuck-all. Meanwhile, my business, Legion Killfeed, is being dragged through the mud because your platform enabled it, then acted like my reaction was the real problem.

I have already filed a formal complaints with the ACCC, UK CMA, and the Danish Consumer Ombudsman.

I am looking into civil legal proceedings for defamation and platform negligence.

You, every staff member who replied and Trustpilot will be named, because this isn't just company-level failure, it's personal negligence.

And yes, I know, respect — you're gonna bitch that I fucking swore. Suck it up, princess. You're lucky a few words said out of anger are all you got after your incompetent platform violated my rights, slandered my business, then acted like me getting angry about it was my fault.

And you clowns are the ones who can't even tell what tickets are open and which are closed, clearly — because you keep replying to the copious attempts made SEVERAL DAYS AGO as if I just sent them.

Hello,

Thank you for your copy-and-paste response.

Please note that my business is being actively defamed, and your team should be thoroughly reviewing every email before replying — if basic logical reasoning is applied.

Regarding the review I'm referring to — not the one linked to this ticket — please take it offline immediately.

If your process requires you to copy and paste responses until you eventually reach the correct email, please ensure you actually read the context and respond accordingly.

Hoping you burn in hell for ruining my reputation,

There is nothing fair about any of what's continued to happen.

You let a coordinated group post fake reviews, encourage others to do the same, and even allowed one with the username "Cunt" to accuse my business of "robbing clients" — all while ignoring direct evidence, police reports, and multiple formal complaints. Your moderation team let these sit live for days, causing measurable damage to my reputation and income. That's not fairness. That's negligence.

Your system failed at every step — allowing lies to be published, letting them stay up far too long, and now responding in fragments, days apart, after the harm has been done. You're only reviewing individual reports when the issue has always been organised abuse across multiple reviews, accounts, and platforms — something you were told about in the very first complaint.

So no — don't act like this was handled fairly. It wasn't. You've been drip-feeding generic responses after ignoring nearly 20 emails. Now go read them properly — all of them — then come back with a full, accountable answer. Or don't, and I'll see you in court.

Anthony Brodie

Owner – Legion Killfeed

I will continue to reply to them all until all are removed from my profile, I don't give a damn what ticket it is.

You keep refusing to remove

[cid:455aa10c-4523-43f1-b49d-34c75da107d7]

This is defamation, plain and simple. It causes real-world commercial harm, and you are now replying days later, which completely undermines your obligations to act "fairly and promptly" when unlawful content is flagged.

Let me be clear:

I will continue to reply to every single defamatory review you leave live.

I do not care what ticket ID it falls under.

Every response becomes evidence — not just of the abuse, but of your deliberate negligence.

You're charging businesses for "priority support" while giving attackers a free platform to commit reputational sabotage. That alone renders your process incompatible with basic legal standards in Australia, the UK, and the EU.

If your system is incapable of identifying clearly defamatory content like this — and you knowingly allow it to remain published — then you are actively republishing libel. And as previously warned, that strips you of intermediary immunity under UK and Australian law. You are now fully on notice. Every single review like this that remains on my profile will be individually documented, responded to, and escalated until I receive confirmation of permanent removal.

There is nothing fair about any of what's continued to happen.

You let a coordinated group post fake reviews, encourage others to do the same, and even allowed one with the username "Cunt" to accuse my business of "robbing clients" — all while ignoring direct evidence, police reports, and multiple formal complaints. Your moderation team let these sit live for days, causing measurable damage to my reputation and income. That's not fairness. That's negligence.

Your system failed at every step — allowing lies to be published, letting them stay up far too long, and now responding in fragments, days apart, after the harm has been done. You're only reviewing individual reports when the issue has always been organised abuse across multiple reviews, accounts, and platforms — something you were told about in the very first complaint.

So no — don't act like this was handled fairly. It wasn't. You've been drip-feeding generic responses after ignoring nearly 20 emails. Now go read them properly — all of them — then come back with a full, accountable answer. Or don't, and I'll see you in court.

Anthony Brodie

Owner – Legion Killfeed

I will continue to reply to them all until all are removed from my profile, I don't give a damn what ticket it is.

You keep refusing to remove

[cid:455aa10c-4523-43f1-b49d-34c75da107d7]

This is defamation, plain and simple. It causes real-world commercial harm, and you are now replying days later, which completely undermines your obligations to act "fairly and promptly" when unlawful content is flagged.

Let me be clear:

I will continue to reply to every single defamatory review you leave live.

I do not care what ticket ID it falls under.

Every response becomes evidence — not just of the abuse, but of your deliberate negligence.

You're charging businesses for "priority support" while giving attackers a free platform to commit reputational sabotage. That alone renders your process incompatible with basic legal standards in Australia, the UK, and the EU.

If your system is incapable of identifying clearly defamatory content like this — and you knowingly allow it to remain published — then you are actively republishing libel. And as previously warned, that strips you of intermediary immunity under UK and Australian law. You are now fully on notice. Every single review like this that remains on my profile will be individually documented, responded to, and escalated until I receive confirmation of permanent removal.

⚠️ Snowflake Warning: If you're easily offended by swearing, emotion, or being held accountable for your incompetence — stop reading. This one isn't for you.

Halla,

Drop the attitude, dickhead. Your reply came FOUR days after I raised the issue, and instead of a meaningful response, I get a patronising, pre-written pile of shit acting like this is just business as usual and I should be thankful anything was done at all.

Let's spell it out so even your "content integrity team" can follow it:

You allowed fake reviews to publish. You delayed removal. You failed to read what was actually sent. And now you're replying with smug copy-paste bullshit as if I'm in the wrong for chasing it.

This isn't about the reviews that were already taken down — those were flagged days ago. The problem is you don't even know what's still active and what isn't, you're responding to old tickets as if they're new, and you've ignored context, evidence, user links, and the coordinated nature of the attacks entirely.

You let known bad actors post reviews under aliases. You've got open evidence of abuse — timestamps, screenshots, fake names, cross-platform harassment — and you've done fuck-all. Meanwhile, my business, Legion Killfeed, is being dragged through the mud because your platform enabled it, then acted like my reaction was the real problem.

I have already filed a formal complaints with the ACCC, UK CMA, and the Danish Consumer Ombudsman.

I am looking into civil legal proceedings for defamation and platform negligence.

You, every staff member who replied and Trustpilot will be named, because this isn't just company-level failure, it's personal negligence.

And yes, I know, respect — you're gonna bitch that I fucking swore. Suck it up, princess. You're lucky a few words said out of anger are all you got after your incompetent platform violated my rights, slandered my business, then acted like me getting angry about it was my fault.

And you clowns are the ones who can't even tell what tickets are open and which are closed, clearly — because you keep replying to the copious attempts made SEVERAL DAYS AGO as if I just sent them.

legal standards in Australia, the UK, and the EU.

If your system is incapable of identifying clearly defamatory content like this — and you knowingly allow it to remain published — then you are actively republishing libel. And as previously warned, that strips you of intermediary immunity under UK and Australian law. You are now fully on notice. Every single review like this that remains on my profile will be individually documented, responded to, and escalated until I receive confirmation of permanent removal.

Hi Anthony,

I'm Samar and I've now personally taken over this case to ensure it's escalated and handled with priority.

We fully understand your concerns and we're here to assist you. Apologies for any delayed response — we know how important this is and appreciate your patience.

Regarding the review by Robert McDonovan — Based on the information you shared about why the review is not based on a genuine experience, we've now taken the review offline, and it's no longer visible on your profile page.

We've let the reviewer know about this decision. Keep in mind that if they dispute it and provide information about their experience, the review may be reinstated.

Please note that we have dedicated teams handling specific case types, and it's not always feasible to manually check every email across different threads. The most effective way to help us resolve your issue quickly is to reply within the relevant case thread, so all information stays connected.

When a review is flagged for defamation, it is automatically hidden during the investigation as part of our standard moderation process. This is done to prevent further reputational harm while the claim is assessed.

And if the review is flagged for other reasons, in some cases—such as "Being about a different business" flagging reason, we are required to contact the reviewer to confirm whether the review was mistakenly posted to the wrong profile. If the reviewer does not respond within 3 days, the review is automatically removed from the public profile to avoid confusion or harm to unrelated businesses.

Each flagging reason also follows its own investigation path, so separating them ensures accuracy and avoids delays. Let's keep things coordinated so we can reach the best outcome as efficiently as possible.

Thank you for your cooperation,

Samar M,
Content Integrity Team

It has been over 5 hours since your last correspondance.

You are already in possession of my 4 Aug 2025 formal legal demand and evidence bundles provided to the ACCC, UK CMA, Danish Consumer Ombudsman, Thames Valley Police (Ref 43250388789) and others. This review by "Robert McDonovan" is part of the same coordinated competitor-led harassment campaign already evidenced in those filings.

Its statements are categorically false, made by a non-customer, and are inherently defamatory. You are now well beyond the point where delay is excusable — every day you knowingly keep this review live is a new act of publication, stripping Trustpilot of any intermediary immunity and making you and your staff personally liable under UK Defamation Act 2013 and Australian Defamation Act 2005.

Remove it immediately or it will be included as a fresh count in my pending defamation proceedings.

⚠️ Snowflake Warning: If you're easily offended by swearing, emotion, or being held accountable for your incompetence — stop reading. This one isn't for you.

Halla,

Drop the attitude, dickhead. Your reply came FOUR days after I raised the issue, and instead of a meaningful response, I get a patronising, pre-written pile of shit acting like this is just business as usual and I should be thankful anything was done at all.

Let's spell it out so even your "content integrity team" can follow it:

You allowed fake reviews to publish. You delayed removal. You failed to read what was actually sent. And now you're replying with smug copy-paste bullshit as if I'm in the wrong for chasing it.

This isn't about the reviews that were already taken down — those were flagged days ago. The problem is you don't even know what's still active and what isn't, you're responding to old tickets as if they're new, and you've ignored context, evidence, user links, and the coordinated nature of the attacks entirely.

You let known bad actors post reviews under aliases. You've got open evidence of abuse — timestamps, screenshots, fake names, cross-platform harassment — and you've done fuck-all. Meanwhile, my business, Legion Killfeed, is being dragged through the mud because your platform enabled it, then acted like my reaction was the real problem.

I have already filed a formal complaints with the ACCC, UK CMA, and the Danish Consumer Ombudsman.

I am looking into civil legal proceedings for defamation and platform negligence.

You, every staff member who replied and Trustpilot will be named, because this isn't just company-level failure, it's personal negligence.

And yes, I know, respect — you're gonna bitch that I fucking swore. Suck it up, princess. You're lucky a few words said out of anger are all you got after your incompetent platform violated my rights, slandered my business, then acted like me getting angry about it was my fault.

And you clowns are the ones who can't even tell what tickets are open and which are closed, clearly — because you keep replying to the copious attempts made SEVERAL DAYS AGO as if I just sent them.

Hello,

Thank you for your copy-and-paste response.

Please note that my business is being actively defamed, and your team should be thoroughly reviewing every email before replying — if basic logical reasoning is applied.

Regarding the review I'm referring to — not the one linked to this ticket — please take it offline immediately.

There is nothing fair about any of what's continued to happen.

You let a coordinated group post fake reviews, encourage others to do the same, and even allowed one with the username "Cunt" to accuse my business of "robbing clients" — all while ignoring direct evidence, police reports, and multiple formal complaints. Your moderation team let these sit live for days, causing measurable damage to my reputation and income. That's not fairness. That's negligence.

Your system failed at every step — allowing lies to be published, letting them stay up far too long, and now responding in fragments, days apart, after the harm has been done. You're only reviewing individual reports when the issue has always been organised abuse across multiple reviews, accounts, and platforms — something you were told about in the very first complaint.

So no — don't act like this was handled fairly. It wasn't. You've been drip-feeding generic responses after ignoring nearly 20 emails. Now go read them properly — all of them — then come back with a full, accountable answer. Or don't, and I'll see you in court.

Anthony Brodie

Owner – Legion Killfeed

I will continue to reply to them all until all are removed from my profile, I don't give a damn what ticket it is.

You keep refusing to remove

[cid:455aa10c-4523-43f1-b49d-34c75da107d7]

This is defamation, plain and simple. It causes real-world commercial harm, and you are now replying days later, which completely undermines your obligations to act "fairly and promptly" when unlawful content is flagged.

Let me be clear:

I will continue to reply to every single defamatory review you leave live.

I do not care what ticket ID it falls under.

Every response becomes evidence — not just of the abuse, but of your deliberate negligence.

You're charging businesses for "priority support" while giving attackers a free platform to commit reputational sabotage. That alone renders your process incompatible with basic legal standards in Australia, the UK, and the EU.

If your system is incapable of identifying clearly defamatory content like this — and you knowingly allow it to remain published — then you are actively republishing libel. And as previously warned, that strips you of intermediary immunity under UK and Australian law. You are now fully on notice. Every single review like this that remains on my profile will be individually documented, responded to, and escalated until I receive confirmation of permanent removal.

Hello,

Thank you for your copy-and-paste response.

Please note that my business is being actively defamed, and your team should be thoroughly reviewing every email before replying — if basic logical reasoning is applied.

Regarding the review I'm referring to — not the one linked to this ticket — please take it offline immediately.

If your process requires you to copy and paste responses until you eventually reach the correct email, please ensure you actually read the context and respond accordingly.

Hoping you burn in hell for ruining my reputation,

Anthony Brodie

There is nothing fair about any of what's continued to happen.

You let a coordinated group post fake reviews, encourage others to do the same, and even allowed one with the username "Cunt" to accuse my business of "robbing clients" — all while ignoring direct evidence, police reports, and multiple formal complaints. Your moderation team let these sit live for days, causing measurable damage to my reputation and income. That's not fairness. That's negligence.

Your system failed at every step — allowing lies to be published, letting them stay up far too long, and now responding in fragments, days apart, after the harm has been done. You're only reviewing individual reports when the issue has always been organised abuse across multiple reviews, accounts, and platforms — something you were told about in the very first complaint.

So no — don't act like this was handled fairly. It wasn't. You've been drip-feeding generic responses after ignoring nearly 20 emails. Now go read them properly — all of them — then come back with a full, accountable answer. Or don't, and I'll see you in court.

Anthony Brodie

Owner – Legion Killfeed

I will continue to reply to them all until all are removed from my profile, I don't give a damn what ticket it is.

You keep refusing to remove

[cid:455aa10c-4523-43f1-b49d-34c75da107d7]

This is defamation, plain and simple. It causes real-world commercial harm, and you are now replying days later, which completely undermines your obligations to act "fairly and promptly" when unlawful content is flagged.

Let me be clear:

I will continue to reply to every single defamatory review you leave live.

I do not care what ticket ID it falls under.

Every response becomes evidence — not just of the abuse, but of your deliberate negligence.

You're charging businesses for "priority support" while giving attackers a free platform to commit reputational sabotage. That alone renders your process incompatible with basic legal standards in Australia, the UK, and the EU.

If your system is incapable of identifying clearly defamatory content like this — and you knowingly allow it to remain published — then you are actively republishing libel. And as previously warned, that strips you of intermediary immunity under UK and Australian law. You are now fully on notice. Every single review like this that remains on my profile will be individually documented, responded to, and escalated until I receive confirmation of permanent removal.

⚠️ Snowflake Warning: If you're easily offended by swearing, emotion, or being held accountable for your incompetence — stop reading. This one isn't for you.

Halla,

Drop the attitude, dickhead. Your reply came FOUR days after I raised the issue, and instead of a meaningful response, I get a patronising, pre-written pile of shit acting like this is just business as usual and I should be thankful anything was done at all.

Let's spell it out so even your "content integrity team" can follow it:

You allowed fake reviews to publish. You delayed removal. You failed to read what was actually sent. And now you're replying with smug copy-paste bullshit as if I'm in the wrong for chasing it.

This isn't about the reviews that were already taken down — those were flagged days ago. The problem is you don't even know what's still active and what isn't, you're responding to old tickets as if they're new, and you've ignored context, evidence, user links, and the coordinated nature of the attacks entirely.

You let known bad actors post reviews under aliases. You've got open evidence of abuse — timestamps, screenshots, fake names, cross-platform harassment — and you've done fuck-all. Meanwhile, my business, Legion Killfeed, is being dragged through the mud because your platform enabled it, then acted like my reaction was the real problem.

I have already filed a formal complaints with the ACCC, UK CMA, and the Danish Consumer Ombudsman.

I am looking into civil legal proceedings for defamation and platform negligence.

You, every staff member who replied and Trustpilot will be named, because this isn't just company-level failure, it's personal negligence.

And yes, I know, respect — you're gonna bitch that I fucking swore. Suck it up, princess. You're lucky a few words said out of anger are all you got after your incompetent platform violated my rights, slandered my business, then acted like me getting angry about it was my fault.

And you clowns are the ones who can't even tell what tickets are open and which are closed, clearly — because you keep replying to the copious attempts made SEVERAL DAYS AGO as if I just sent them.

There is nothing fair about any of what's continued to happen.

You let a coordinated group post fake reviews, encourage others to do the same, and even allowed one with the username "Cunt" to accuse my business of "robbing clients" —

all while ignoring direct evidence, police reports, and multiple formal complaints. Your moderation team let these sit live for days, causing measurable damage to my reputation and income. That's not fairness. That's negligence.

Your system failed at every step — allowing lies to be published, letting them stay up far too long, and now responding in fragments, days apart, after the harm has been done. You're only reviewing individual reports when the issue has always been organised abuse across multiple reviews, accounts, and platforms — something you were told about in the very first complaint.

So no — don't act like this was handled fairly. It wasn't. You've been drip-feeding generic responses after ignoring nearly 20 emails. Now go read them properly — all of them — then come back with a full, accountable answer. Or don't, and I'll see you in court.

I will continue to reply to them all until all are removed from my profile, I don't give a damn what ticket it is.

You keep refusing to remove

[cid:455aa10c-4523-43f1-b49d-34c75da107d7]

This is defamation, plain and simple. It causes real-world commercial harm, and you are now replying days later, which completely undermines your obligations to act "fairly and promptly" when unlawful content is flagged.

Let me be clear:

I will continue to reply to every single defamatory review you leave live.

I do not care what ticket ID it falls under.

Every response becomes evidence — not just of the abuse, but of your deliberate negligence.

You're charging businesses for "priority support" while giving attackers a free platform to commit reputational sabotage. That alone renders your process incompatible with basic legal standards in Australia, the UK, and the EU.

If your system is incapable of identifying clearly defamatory content like this — and you knowingly allow it to remain published — then you are actively republishing libel. And as previously warned, that strips you of intermediary immunity under UK and Australian law. You are now fully on notice. Every single review like this that remains on my profile will be individually documented, responded to, and escalated until I receive confirmation of permanent removal.

⚠️ Snowflake Warning: If you're easily offended by swearing, emotion, or being held accountable for your incompetence — stop reading. This one isn't for you.

Halla,

Drop the attitude, dickhead. Your reply came FOUR days after I raised the issue, and instead of a meaningful response, I get a patronising, pre-written pile of shit acting like this is just business as usual and I should be thankful anything was done at all.

Let's spell it out so even your "content integrity team" can follow it:

You allowed fake reviews to publish. You delayed removal. You failed to read what was actually sent. And now you're replying with smug copy-paste bullshit as if I'm in the wrong for chasing it.

This isn't about the reviews that were already taken down — those were flagged days ago. The problem is you don't even know what's still active and what isn't, you're responding to old tickets as if they're new, and you've ignored context, evidence, user links, and the coordinated nature of the attacks entirely.

You let known bad actors post reviews under aliases. You've got open evidence of abuse — timestamps, screenshots, fake names, cross-platform harassment — and you've done fuck-all. Meanwhile, my business, Legion Killfeed, is being dragged through the mud because your platform enabled it, then acted like my reaction was the real problem.

I have already filed a formal complaints with the ACCC, UK CMA, and the Danish Consumer Ombudsman.

I am looking into civil legal proceedings for defamation and platform negligence.

You, every staff member who replied and Trustpilot will be named, because this isn't just company-level failure, it's personal negligence.

And yes, I know, respect — you're gonna bitch that I fucking swore. Suck it up, princess. You're lucky a few words said out of anger are all you got after your incompetent platform violated my rights, slandered my business, then acted like me getting angry about it was my fault.

And you clowns are the ones who can't even tell what tickets are open and which are closed, clearly — because you keep replying to the copious attempts made SEVERAL DAYS AGO as if I just sent them.

Hello,

Thank you for your copy-and-paste response.

Please note that my business is being actively defamed, and your team should be thoroughly reviewing every email before replying — if basic logical reasoning is applied.

Regarding the review I'm referring to — not the one linked to this ticket — please take it offline immediately.

There is nothing fair about any of what's continued to happen.

You let a coordinated group post fake reviews, encourage others to do the same, and even allowed one with the username "Cunt" to accuse my business of "robbing clients" — all while ignoring direct evidence, police reports, and multiple formal complaints. Your moderation team let these sit live for days, causing measurable damage to my reputation and income. That's not fairness. That's negligence.

Your system failed at every step — allowing lies to be published, letting them stay up far too long, and now responding in fragments, days apart, after the harm has been done. You're only reviewing individual reports when the issue has always been organised abuse across multiple reviews, accounts, and platforms — something you were told about in the very first complaint.

So no — don't act like this was handled fairly. It wasn't. You've been drip-feeding generic responses after ignoring nearly 20 emails. Now go read them properly — all of them — then come back with a full, accountable answer. Or don't, and I'll see you in court.

Anthony Brodie

Owner – Legion Killfeed

I will continue to reply to them all until all are removed from my profile, I don't give a damn what ticket it is.

You keep refusing to remove

[cid:455aa10c-4523-43f1-b49d-34c75da107d7]

This is defamation, plain and simple. It causes real-world commercial harm, and you are now replying days later, which completely undermines your obligations to act "fairly and promptly" when unlawful content is flagged.

Let me be clear:

I will continue to reply to every single defamatory review you leave live.

I do not care what ticket ID it falls under.

Every response becomes evidence — not just of the abuse, but of your deliberate negligence.

You're charging businesses for "priority support" while giving attackers a free platform to commit reputational sabotage. That alone renders your process incompatible with basic legal standards in Australia, the UK, and the EU.

If your system is incapable of identifying clearly defamatory content like this — and you knowingly allow it to remain published — then you are actively republishing libel. And as previously warned, that strips you of intermediary immunity under UK and Australian law. You are now fully on notice. Every single review like this that remains on my profile will be individually documented, responded to, and escalated until I receive confirmation of permanent removal.

Hello,

Thank you for your copy-and-paste response.

Please note that my business is being actively defamed, and your team should be thoroughly reviewing every email before replying — if basic logical reasoning is applied.

Regarding the review I'm referring to — not the one linked to this ticket — please take it offline immediately.

If your process requires you to copy and paste responses until you eventually reach the correct email, please ensure you actually read the context and respond accordingly.

Hoping you burn in hell for ruining my reputation,

Anthony Brodie

There is nothing fair about any of what's continued to happen.

You let a coordinated group post fake reviews, encourage others to do the same, and even allowed one with the username "Cunt" to accuse my business of "robbing clients" — all while ignoring direct evidence, police reports, and multiple formal complaints. Your moderation team let these sit live for days, causing measurable damage to my reputation and income. That's not fairness. That's negligence.

Your system failed at every step — allowing lies to be published, letting them stay up far too long, and now responding in fragments, days apart, after the harm has been done. You're only reviewing individual reports when the issue has always been organised abuse across multiple reviews, accounts, and platforms — something you were told about in the very first complaint.

So no — don't act like this was handled fairly. It wasn't. You've been drip-feeding generic responses after ignoring nearly 20 emails. Now go read them properly — all of them — then come back with a full, accountable answer. Or don't, and I'll see you in court.

I will continue to reply to them all until all are removed from my profile, I don't give a damn what ticket it is.

You keep refusing to remove

[cid:455aa10c-4523-43f1-b49d-34c75da107d7]

This is defamation, plain and simple. It causes real-world commercial harm, and you are now replying days later, which completely undermines your obligations to act "fairly and promptly" when unlawful content is flagged.

Let me be clear:

I will continue to reply to every single defamatory review you leave live.

I do not care what ticket ID it falls under.

Every response becomes evidence — not just of the abuse, but of your deliberate negligence.

You're charging businesses for "priority support" while giving attackers a free platform to commit reputational sabotage. That alone renders your process incompatible with basic legal standards in Australia, the UK, and the EU.

If your system is incapable of identifying clearly defamatory content like this — and you knowingly allow it to remain published — then you are actively republishing libel. And as previously warned, that strips you of intermediary immunity under UK and Australian law. You are now fully on notice. Every single review like this that remains on my profile will be individually documented, responded to, and escalated until I receive confirmation of permanent removal.
