Re: Unknown

NOTICE TYPE: Defamation

Legal Complaint

I am the person identified and targeted by these publications by Joel Lenny Walker, the developer of "Make DayZ Great Again Killfeed", using his position as Admin of the 33,000 member facebook page Joel has spread lies calling me a pedophile and more, the Google URLs above are redirect URLs that lead to the two Facebook posts listed below. Those posts are unlawful because they publish false statements of fact about me and my business to third parties, in a way that is clearly intended to damage my reputation, deter customers from using my services and interfere with my business relationships.

This is not an isolated disagreement or mere opinion. It is part of a broader, repeated harassment and defamation campaign carried out through Facebook groups and posts by Joel Walker and people acting in concert with him. The same group history includes earlier posts falsely accusing me of being a pedophile, including an edited post in the same group where the wording was changed after reactions had already been accumulated so that an earlier generic statement was converted into a direct accusation against me and my business. The effect of that edit was to make a newly-added defamatory accusation appear to have already been widely endorsed. The same group also attracted comments calling for violence and repeating pedophile-themed accusations against me.

The post at <https://www.facebook.com/groups/makedayzgreatestagain/posts/1481591939589293/> is unlawful because it states as fact that if people use my services I will "reset loop" their server, force players to leave their community, and that I bragged about forcing other communities to die. Those are false factual allegations about how my service operates. They are not opinion, parody, or fair comment. They directly attack the integrity of my business and are plainly capable of causing serious financial loss, loss of customers, and reputational damage.

The comment thread under that same URL compounds the unlawfulness by adding further false and abusive personal allegations about me, including that I am an “obsessive drunk” and that I “slander everyone,” together with repeated bumping and continuation comments to keep the defamatory publication active and visible. The publication is therefore both defamatory and malicious.

The post at <https://www.facebook.com/groups/dayzeditors/posts/1385739236246930/> is also unlawful because it appears in a thread where a user was asking for help setting up my bot and instead of providing neutral information, the comments publish false and disparaging statements about my business in order to drive the user away from my product. It falsely asserts that I threatens legal action against anyone who does not support it, calls me and my business “idiots,” tells users not to use my service, and ridicules me in a way intended to undermine confidence in my services. That is commercial disparagement and defamation aimed at a business audience.

These statements are false. They are not substantially true. They identify me and my business directly. They were published to third parties in large Facebook groups connected to the DayZ community, where potential customers, existing customers, and other server owners would see them. Their natural and ordinary meaning is that I am dishonest, unstable, malicious, abusive, and that my service harms customers’ servers and communities. Those imputations are gravely damaging.

Under Australian law, including the Defamation Act 2005 (NSW), these publications are defamatory because they identify me, convey false and seriously harmful imputations, and have caused serious harm to my reputation. They also amount to injurious falsehood / malicious falsehood because false statements about my business and service were published maliciously to discourage use of my services and to cause business loss.

The surrounding conduct makes the malice even clearer. Joel Walker is not a neutral bystander. He is the owner/operator of Make DayZ Great Again (a DayZ Facebook group) and Project Jackalope DayZ Servers. He recently started his own competing services (Make DayZ Great Again Killfeed - mdzga.com) and has used his 33,000 member Facebook groups that he frequently misleads while in an admin role to repeatedly publish, edit, bump, and spread hostile material about me and my services. The evidence shows post-editing after reactions, deliberate bumping, repeated personal attacks, and use of group visibility to maximise harm. This is coordinated abusive use of the platform, not an honest review.

There is also a clear platform notice issue. The content was repeatedly reported to Meta, including through ordinary reporting tools, review requests, group/profile reports, and direct Meta Pro support contact. Meta was expressly told that the post identified me and my business, that the reporting system was failing, and that the same group had repeatedly posted unlawful content about me. Despite this, Meta repeatedly refused removal, refused action on related comments, and in support chat stated that it could not manually act while leaving the defamatory content live. Google’s continued indexing and surfacing of these URLs therefore prolongs and amplifies the harm from content that is false, defamatory, malicious, and part of a repeated harassment campaign.

I request that Google remove these URLs from search results and related indexing because they contain false factual allegations about me and my business, are part of an ongoing harassment and defamation campaign, and continue to cause serious reputational and commercial harm. ...
